

“We agree that the NSW planning system has become corrupted and driven by developer interests. We support returning real planning powers to local communities through their council. We commit to wholesale change to the NSW planning system that would put communities and the environment first.”

William Bourke, Sustainable Australia Party candidate for the Legislative Council

Lachlan Commins, Sustainable Australia Party candidate for North Shore